

Terms and Conditions for one.com v.15

The following terms apply at one.com as of February 15th 2021 and replace any previous version of these terms and conditions.

1. Subscription

A one.com hosting subscription provides access to the use of one.com's servers and may include a domain name, e-mail accounts and the right to set up a website. The amount of disk space, e-mail accounts and websites available depends on the type of subscription chosen.

Subscription periods last for 12 months at a time. 30 days before a 12-month subscription period, the subscription is automatically prolonged, unless the subscription is cancelled as stated in section 1.6.

Free subscriptions are automatically prolonged at the end of the free subscription period unless the subscription is cancelled as stated in section 1.7.

In relationships between consumer and retailer, a right of withdrawal exists by which the customer has the right of withdrawing an order until 14 days after placing the order but domains are unique and web spaces are individually manufactured and customized for the domain. For a faster delivery of the product, one.com will usually begin the manufacturing and customizing of the product as soon as the order is received. By ordering, the customer accepts that any right of withdrawal will be dismissed as soon as one.com has started processing the ordered product.

1.1 Use

Subscribers are not permitted to store large amounts of data on the server for free download or reading without prior agreement with one.com.

Illegal material is not permitted on any of one.com's servers, whether this be images, film clips, other types of files or link to unlawful photos or similar material. For example, unlawful material is, but not limited to, copyright protected material or other material you are not entitled to publish or store according to legislation. Nor is it permitted to store erotic, pornographic or other offensive material on servers owned by one.com, that jeopardises the stability or performance of one.com's servers. It is entirely one.com's decision to determine whether material belongs to one or more of the above categories, and the company reserves the right to delete any such material at any time without notice. In the event of such material being deleted the customer cannot advance any claim against one.com related to the deletion.

Traffic is basically unlimited. However, traffic must be normal in nature and not disrupt that of other customers. If a customer's traffic disrupts that of others, one.com reserves the right to close the customer's web space without notice and/or make a separate charge for the traffic. one.com reserves the absolute right to decide whether or not traffic is excessive. On closure of a web space, no refund will be made of any subscription paid in advance.

Unwanted (spam) mail must not be sent from one.com's servers. In the event of transgression of this rule, one.com reserves the right to inform the relevant authority and submit log details etc. to that authority. one.com reserves the right to demand payment for time spent in relation to such information and its submission to the relevant authority.

1.2 Scripts

one.com provides unlimited access to standard scripts and the use of other scripts. However, the use of other scripts is only permitted as long as it does not burden the servers to an unreasonable degree.

1.3 Templates (web designs)

All templates placed at the disposal of customers by one.com remain the property of one.com regardless of whether individual templates have been modified or not. No templates placed at customers' disposal by one.com may be distributed to others on either a commercial or non-commercial basis. All templates are provided with non-exclusive rights. In the event that one.com feels obliged to withdraw the right of use of a template, one.com cannot be held responsible for any loss (direct or indirect) on the part of the customer as a result of the withdrawal. Nor is one.com responsible for any errors or deficiencies of templates or access to them.

1.4 Operational reliability

one.com reserves the right to limit/reduce the usage of products if required for operational or security reasons. For reasons of operation and security, one.com also reserves the right to access customers' user data. In such event, the staff of one.com will be subject to professional secrecy. All other access to user data requires the acceptance of the customer or a court order. Although the spam and virus filters placed at the disposal of customers minimise the risk of their receiving unwanted mails, one.com does not guarantee that customers will not receive unwanted mail.

1.5 Responsibility

The customer's use of a one.com subscription is entirely at his/her own risk. one.com cannot be held responsible for the contents, including accuracy, lawfulness, completeness etc. of the information which the customer receives or sends via the Internet.

one.com is liable in accordance with applicable law, subject to the following limitations:

one.com's responsibility does not include operating loss, loss of data, loss of profit, loss of goodwill or any other indirect loss that the customer suffers as a result of one.com's or third party's products.

one.com is not liable for losses resulting from interruptions, disturbances or changes that one.com deemed necessary for technical, maintenance and operational reasons or required by the authorities, unless one.com has neglected to limit the resulting inconveniences.

one.com is not liable for any loss or damage caused by the customer's own IT environment or caused by the customer or by third parties.

one.com is not liable for any loss or damage caused by a force majeure event.

one.com is not liable for services delivered by third-parties where one.com acts as an intermediary.

In all cases, regardless of the cause, one.com's total liability for loss or damage is limited to the amount paid by the customer to one.com in the year in which the loss or damage occurred.

1.6 Cancellation of subscriptions

A subscription can be cancelled at any time by the customer. Since the subscription period lasts for 12 months and is automatically prolonged 30 days before the end of each 12-month period, a cancellation must be received by one.com 30 days before the 12-month subscription period, at the latest. The unused portion of any advance payment will not be refunded. If the cancellation is not sent to one.com in time, the customer is obliged to pay the subscription fee for the following 12-month period.

A customer may initiate cancellation of a subscription from the control panel of the web space. An cancellation email with instructions will then be sent to the web space contact email address. The customer must follow the instructions in the email to complete the cancellation. When the subscription is cancelled, it will appear as cancelled in the control panel.

Example:

If the subscription was ordered January 1st 2018 the subscription lasts until December 31st 2018. If the customer does not wish to continue the subscription for the following year (2019), the subscription must be cancelled before November 30, 2018.

When one.com has received a cancellation, the customer will automatically be given a notice of receipt, displayed on the front page of the customer's Control Panel. The customer will also receive a notice of receipt via e-mail regarding the cancellation from one.com. If the customer cannot see any such receipt on the front page of the one.com Control Panel within eight days he or she must send a new cancellation.

If one.com chooses to terminate specific subscription types or special services, one.com may cancel a subscription with one month's notice. In such circumstances, the unused portion of any advance payment will as an exception be refunded. If one.com makes significant changes which depreciate the Terms and Conditions, customers shall be entitled to cancel their subscriptions with one month's notice. The unused portion of any advance payment will also, as an exception, be refunded. The subscription must in no way be used to gain unauthorised access to systems connected to the Internet. If any such activities or criminal acts come to the notice of one.com, regardless of the country the laws of which underlie the violation, the subscription will be immediately terminated and one.com reserves the right to pass on all relevant information to the relevant authorities. one.com also has the right to annul a subscription without notice with immediate effect and without compensation or reimbursement of any kind if the customer does not abide by these Terms and Conditions, if a party wastes or abuses resources available on the Internet, disrupts the functionality of the Internet, infringes netiquette valid at any given moment, e.g. by passing on information about other people's private affairs or in other ways inconveniencing other users of the Internet. Data from homepages and mail systems will generally be deleted seven days after termination of a subscription.

1.7 Cancellation of free subscriptions

A free subscription can be cancelled at any time by the customer. Since the free subscription is automatically prolonged at the end of the free subscription period, a cancellation must be received by one.com before the start of the next subscription period, at the latest. If the cancellation is not sent to one.com in time, the customer is obliged to pay the subscription fee for the following 12-month period.

2. Domains

On ordering a domain, the buyer/cardholder must declare that the person registering accepts that use of the domain name does not violate the name or trademark rights of third parties or otherwise be considered to contravene legislation.

Domain names are registered in the customer's own name and at the request of the customer. In this respect, one.com acts as an intermediary. one.com will inform the customer when the registration of the domain name has taken place. one.com assumes no responsibilities for the domain name if it is transferred or cancelled, or if the web space is deleted.

The domain name will be "registered with" / "transferred to" one.com's partners. These may be with domain registrars or directly with the individual domain administrator of the Top Level Domain concerned. At the end of each subscription period the customer will receive an invoice from one.com for the annual domain fee, unless otherwise stated. This applies regardless of whether the domain is pointed to DNS servers at one.com or someplace else.

In the event of wrongly ordered domains (spelling mistakes, name errors or similar) the registration fee will not be repayable. one.com will, however, endeavour to correct the domain name so long as registration has not yet taken place. If one.com is responsible for submitting an erroneous order of a domain name, one.com will either refund the registration fee or offer registration of the correct domain name.

It is the customer's own responsibility to keep one.com and possible top-level domain authorities updated regarding changes of address or other contact information.
